All employees and consultants bear a responsibility to act as ambassadors for the Company in terms of their general conduct both within and outside the organisation.

This Code sets out the behaviours we expect of our employees, consultants, suppliers, contractors, agents and partners. We are committed to complying with all applicable legal requirements and working to the highest ethical standards. This Code is a guide to the general principles that inform the way we work with each other and our relationships with clients, suppliers, vendors, competitors, government bodies and the public. We do not tolerate any discrimination or harassment of our people and we have processes in place to enable us to support our employees and consultants should they experience unacceptable behaviours in our Company. The senior management are responsible ultimately for all ethics and compliance related matters and will not allow the integrity of the business to be compromised.

2.2 Definition of Bribery

Bribery is generally defined in two ways:-

1. An offer, a promise or a gift of a financial or other advantage to another.
2. A request, agreement to receive or an acceptance of a financial or other advantage.

Both acts must be linked to an intention to influence the improper performance of a relevant function or activity.

It does not matter whether the one who receives the financial or other advantage is the person who performs the relevant function or activity improperly. What matters is that there is an intention to influence the improper performance of the function to which the bribery relates.

3 BUSINESS & GENERAL CONDUCT

3.1 Introduction

Employees/Consultants should at all times conduct themselves in such a way as to enhance the reputation of the Company.

SF will support employees/consultants who become aware of and are willing to report breaches of this policy or who genuinely believe that a breach is occurring, has occurred or is likely to occur within the business. Employees/Consultants should raise the issue with their manager, team leader or directly to senior management.

These standards of conduct are intended to underpin and clarify standards required by the Company of its employees/consultants and form a fundamental part of the employment/consultancy contract. Employees/Consultants who fail to comply with the guidance detailed in this Policy could be subject, following full investigation, to disciplinary action up to and including dismissal. If through their actions or omissions employees/consultants are found to be in contravention of either this Policy or, indeed, their legal responsibilities then the Company reserves the right to take legal action if it deems it to be necessary to do so.

This Code is not intended to provide detailed guidance about compliance with every local legal requirement in the many different countries in which we operate. Each individual is responsible for knowing and following the laws that apply to the place or country in which they work. Where differences exist as the result of local customs, norms, laws or regulations, you must apply the highest standard of behaviour, whether contained in this Code or as a local requirement. If you are in any doubt, you should seek your team leader's or manager's advice at the earliest opportunity. We strive to comply with the laws, rules, regulations and export control laws and sanctions of the jurisdictions in which we work and to co-operate with routine government and regulatory enquiries and investigations. If you are subject to any such enquiry, you should notify your team leader or senior management before responding. We respect local customs and culture and seek to develop lasting relationships in the communities in which we work.

3.2.2 Field Wear

From the moment you leave your house on task you are an ambassador for SF. The image you present when traveling and on assignment is important to us. Please always dress neatly and conservatively and do not draw attention to yourself in any way. Do not wear or carry anything which could be considered "military".

When you embark or start your assignment you must present the company image. We request that you wear your uniform and the required PPE (which maybe client specific).

It is essential that you wear PPE when required or when you believe it is appropriate.

All consultants must maintain a high standard of dress and appearance. Uniforms will fit properly; trousers, pants, or skirts should not fit tightly; and clothes and uniforms must be kept clean and presentable. You will maintain good personal hygiene and grooming on a daily basis.

Employees and Consultants should pay particular respect to observing clients rules of command on board and in their offices.

3.5 Communication and Availability.

It is extremely important that you keep the operations team accurately updated to your availability and it is vital that you are contactable at all times.

Keeping us informed of your non-availability is CRITICAL. Please update us if you go away suddenly – it makes our lives so much easier when looking at who is available (and understandably we do lose patience with consultants who are un-obtainable when we try to contact them).

3.6 Transaction of Private Business

Employees and Consultants having official dealings with contractors and other suppliers of goods or services must avoid transacting any kind of private business with them by any means other than the Company's normal commercial channels. No favour or preferences as regards price, or otherwise, which is not generally available, should be sought or accepted

Outside interests include directorships, ownership, part ownership or material shareholdings in companies, business or consultancies likely to seek to do business with the Company. These should be declared to the individual's line manager as should the interests of a spouse / partner or close relative. Do not engage in activities which may be perceived as conflicting with your duties as an employee or consultant. A conflict may arise where personal interests are at odds with those of our business. If you are in any doubt as to whether a potential conflict exists (concerning you or a third party), you should disclose it immediately to your manager. The activities of close relatives can create conflicts of interest, too.

Whilst we cannot provide a complete list, some potential conflicts could include:

- accepting commissions, gifts of more than a nominal value, excessive hospitality, loans or
- other favourable treatment from any supplier, customer or competitor of the business
- benefiting from the sale, loan or gift of any property held by the business

All employees will receive annual training in anti-trust and competition law and those employees identified as at risk in the company's Strategic Risk Assessment will receive additional online training.

3.9 Personal Relationships

If a personal relationship between two employees/consultants develops within the working environment, the onus is on the senior employee/consultant concerned to bring this to the attention of his or her manager to confirm that there is no conflict of interest, nor will a conflict of interest arise. The Company reserves the right to move one of the employees/consultants concerned if it deems it necessary to do so.

3.10 Confidentiality

Employees and Consultants, having signed a non-disclosure agreement, must be aware of the fact that confidentiality is crucial, not only to the company but to the client as well. Therefore, employees and consultants are not permitted to contact the client directly unless authorised by SF.

Employees/Consultants must not seek employment or reward from clients as it compromises the client's ethics and causes a conflict of interest. If in any doubt regarding this matter, it would be courteous and commercially sensible to, in the first instance to contact our head office and speak to the General Manager or Managing Director to discuss any issues. At all times confidentiality must be maintained. No information can be released to unauthorised persons or organisations

3.11 Political and Civic Activities

It is not the intention of SF, or this policy, to dissuade employees/consultants from participating actively in public duties. It is important, however, that by doing so there is no suggestion to a third party that the employee is acting on behalf of, or with the support of, SF. To avoid any misunderstanding, no Company employee should permit his or her company affiliation to be noted in any outside organisation's materials or activities without the express written approval of a member of senior management. Salama Fikira will not engage in party political activity or make any political contributions (in cash or in kind).

3.12 Bullying and Harassment

We are committed to providing a working environment which is free from harassment and intimidation. Harassment is defined broadly and covers any conduct which is regarded as unwelcome or offensive by the recipient and which adversely affects an employee's/consultant's dignity. It may include comments of a racial or tribal nature.

Sexual harassment is conduct towards another which is of a sexual nature or based on a person's gender, which is regarded as unwelcome or offensive by the recipient.

We will not tolerate the harassment of our employees/consultants and whilst we encourage issues to be resolved on an informal basis, we will fully support any employee/consultant who, in good faith, reports unacceptable behaviour to us.

Complaints regarding sexual harassment should be made in writing to your team leader, manager or human resource manager and will be fully investigated under the relevant grievance procedure. It is a disciplinary offence (for which an employee/consultant may be dismissed summarily) to victimise or retaliate against someone who makes or assists with the making of a harassment complaint. All complaints regarding sexual harassment shall be treated as confidential and the identity of the complainant will not be disclosed except where disclosure is necessary for the purpose of investigating the complaint or taking disciplinary measures in relation thereto.

Salama Fikira aims to provide a safe working environment for all those who work with us and we protect our assets against fraud, misuse and other illegal activities. You must take every care with the Company's property and should never disclose or misuse our intellectual property or other confidential information. This applies throughout your employment and continues after your employment ends. If you do need to share our confidential information with someone outside of our business, you must obtain your manager's prior approval and check whether you should have the third party sign a confidentiality agreement prior to the disclosure.

As part of the Induction Process, new employees will be made familiar and understand the Company Code of Conduct.

Employees considered 'at risk' identified by the Company's Strategic Risk Assessment will receive further online training through an external provider.

Annual refresher training will be provided as part of ABC awareness training.

3.15.2 Consultants

As part of the Induction Process, new consultants will be made familiar and understand the Company Code of Conduct.

4 SUBSTANCE AND ALCOHOL ABUSE

4.1 Mandate and Commitment

Drug and alcohol abuse contributes to millions of dollars of lost productivity and thousands of work place injuries every year. At SF, where security is at our core, the unintended disclosure or misuse of Company or Client intellectual property or confidential information could have even graver consequences for our employees, consultants, clients, suppliers, government bodies and other stakeholders.

It is for this reason that SF takes alcohol and drug abuse as an extremely serious matter and will not tolerate it. The Company absolutely prohibits the abuse of alcohol or non-prescribed drugs whilst on duty or whilst on company premises. The Company also discourages non-work alcohol and drug abuse or in any situation where the disclosure or misuse of intellectual property or confidential information could occur. The use, sale or possession of alcohol or non-prescription drugs while on the job may result in immediate suspension or dismissal.

Our employees and consultants are our single most important asset who create, support and build our reputation. All employees and consultants bear a responsibility to act as ambassadors for the Company in terms of their general conduct both within and outside the organisation. We therefore request that at all times you behave in a manner that promotes SF both “on and off the job”.

The Company also cautions against use of prescribed or over-the-counter medication which can affect your work place performance. You may be suspended or discharged if the company concludes that you cannot perform your job properly or safely because of using over-the-counter or prescribed medication. Please inform your manager, team leader or HR prior to working under the influence of a prescribed or over-the-counter medication which may affect your performance.

SF will make every effort to assist its employees/consultants who disclose to us in confidence and of their own volition (and when not subject to a drugs or alcohol test) that they wish to seek treatment or rehabilitation for alcohol or drug dependency. The Company will consider continued employment of such an employee as long as the employee adequately addresses continued concerns regarding safety, health, production, communication or other work related matters. The Company will most likely require the employee to agree to random testing and a “one-strike” rule.

SF takes very seriously the problem of alcohol and drug abuse and is committed to providing a substance free work place for its employees/consultants and clients. This policy applies to all employees and consultants of SF without exception.

SF endeavours to provide a healthy environment. Therefore any form of tobacco consumed in company buildings is prohibited.

The Company reserves the right to demand a drug or alcohol test of any employee or consultant based upon random drug/alcohol testing or reasonable suspicion. Reasonable suspicion includes, but is not limited to, physical evidence of use, involvement in an accident, or a substantial drop off in work performance. Failure to take a requested test may lead to discipline, including possible termination. All employees and consultants should report evidence of alcohol or drug abuse to their manager, team leader or to HR. Employees/consultants who violate the substance and alcohol policy will be subject to disciplinary action, including termination.

If after reading this policy you have any questions about its application to your work you should speak to your manager, Team Leader or HR. The Company will regard failure to observe this policy as serious misconduct which may lead to dismissal..

4.2 Alcohol and Drug Testing

SF will ensure that all its employees and consultants work within the laws of the land:

It is a criminal offence for certain workers, such as drivers, security officers or operators of firearms, to be unfit for their work due to taking drugs or alcohol. The possession, supply or production of controlled drugs is unlawful except for in special circumstances (e.g. when they have been prescribed by a doctor).

Employees/consultants are also legally required to take reasonable care of themselves and to behave in a way that does not pose risks to the health and safety of themselves or others in the workplace. This includes consideration of the effects that intoxication through taking alcohol or drugs may have.

In order to ensure compliance with the law, all employees and consultants must be aware that either the Company or the client may undertake drug / alcohol testing under any of the following circumstances:

- RANDOM TESTING: Employees/Consultants may be selected at random for drug and/or alcohol testing at any interval determined by the Company or the client.
- FOR-CAUSE TESTING: The Company may ask an employee/Consultant to submit to a drug and/or alcohol test at any time it feels that the employee/consultant may be under the influence of drugs or alcohol, including, but not limited to, the following circumstances: evidence of drugs or alcohol on or about the employee's/consultant's person or in the employee's/consultant's vicinity, unusual conduct on the employee's/consultant's part that suggests impairment or influence of drugs or alcohol, negative performance patterns, or excessive and unexplained absenteeism or tardiness.
- ROUTINE TESTING: Before the commencement of any driving task, the driver should expect to be tested as part of the process of being issued a vehicle. All employees and consultants should expect to be tested every year.
- POST-ACCIDENT TESTING: Any employee/consultant involved in an on-the-job accident or injury under circumstances that suggest possible use or influence of drugs or alcohol in the accident or injury event may be asked to submit to a drug and/or alcohol test. "Involved in an on-the-job accident or injury" means not only the one who was or could have been injured, but also any employee/consultant who potentially contributed to the accident or injury event in any way.

To ensure the testing is legal and safe, tests will be undertake in accordance with the procedure outlined in the Training and Recruitment Policy (SF QMS HR REC TRAINING POL)

5 MONEY LAUNDERING

SF does not condone, facilitate or support money laundering. SF is committed to complying with money laundering laws worldwide. All personnel should be alert for any unusual financial transactions that may indicate money laundering, such as irregularities in the way payments are made, payments made by third parties for the benefit of another party and payments from offshore banking locations.

8.2 Scope

This policy applies to all Employees, Contractors, Agents, and Suppliers.
